Draft EIR and Plan for Rancho San Carlos

The Draft Environmental Impact Report (Draft EIR) for the Santa Lucia Preserve Project proposed for the 20,000 acre Rancho San Carlos has recently been released by the County of Monterey for a 45 day public review period.

The project calls for creation of a nature and wildlife Preserve on 18,000 acres, over 90% of the property. The remaining 2,000 acres of the land will be used for a self-contained residential/visitor/recreational community.

The application for a Community Preserve was submitted in April of last year and included a comprehensive development plan consisting of a maximum of 300 residential units, 50 inclusionary housing units for employees, an expanded 40 room guest hacienda and a 110 room lodge, a post office, general store, gas station, retail store and offices, at the existing Ranch Center, public trails linking Garland Ranch Regional Park, and a golf trail to be irrigated with water collected from a wastewater treatment facility, diffused stormwater and wells.

Cal-Am caught with their buckets in our wells

By Elizabeth Cowley

The State Water Resources Control Board (SWRCB) issued two major draft decisions affecting the water supply on the Monterey Peninsula on June 22, 1995. The SWRCB ruled that Cal-Am does not have a legal right to 10,730 acre feet of water it has been diverting annually from the Carmel River and is requiring a 20% cutback in production over the next two years. On the same day, the SWRCB granted a water rights permit to the proposed 24,000 acre foot New Los Padres Dam (NLPD) project.

Essentially, the SWRCB decision means that 10,730 acre feet of river water diverted without a permit by Cal-Am now falls under the jurisdiction of the SWRCB. As the SWRCB issued a 24,000 acre foot water rights permit to the proposed NLPD on the same day, the issue is not whether there is enough water but that water must be legally obtained in accordance with SWRCB guidelines. The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District is in support of the proposed NLPD however several other legal means of water acquisition are available not the least of which is obtaining rights to some of the water currently being pumped from the river.

Cal-Am has been diverting 14,106 acre feet annually from the Carmel River. The San Clemente Dam and the Los Padres Dam have a combined total storage capacity of about 2,600 acre feet, about half of their original capacity due to sedimentation. An additional 10,730 acre feet are pumped from 21 wells along the Carmel River.

The question of Cal-Am's right to pump water from wells along the river was first identified by the SWRCB Chair in 1981 and four complaints against Cal-Am were subsequently filed by the Carmel River Steelhead Association in 1987, the Residents

Water District Monthly Report

By Elizabeth Cowley

The Monterey Peninsula Water Management District (MPWMD) Board of Directors held its monthly meeting on Monday, June 19 at the Monterey Conference Center.

The MPWMD Board unanimously approved the appointment of Bill Hurst as temporary General Manager to replace Jim Corcoran who recently passed away.

Henrietta Stern presented a report on the progress of the proposed New Los Padres Dam (NLPD). The Federal 404 Permit for the proposed NLPD was finalized on June 12, 1995. The public comment period on Addendum-2 to the Final Environmental Impact Report (FEIR) for the NLPD, which largely covers additional construction phase mitigation measures, will close on July 5, 1995 and the MPWMD intends re-certify the FEIR on August 7, 1995. NLPD cost refinements are expected to be completed in late July. (On June 22, after the meeting date, the State Water Resources Control Board issued its draft decision granting a water rights permit for 24,000 acre feet to the proposed NLPD.)

The MPWMD budget for fiscal year 1995-96 was passed by a vote of 6-1, Director Haddad dissenting. The $6 million budget assumes the voters will approve the proposed NLPD in November. Thus the budget assumes the additional revenue of $.85 per unit in user fees beginning in January of 1996 and the additional expense of finalizing the dam. Director Haddad voted no on the budget saying it was not equitable to charge user fees to residents who would not receive any benefit until 2001.

The consent calendar was approved with the exception of Director Haddad's no vote on two items authorizing the MPWMD to spend public funds on river management projects. Director Haddad has consistently held that no public funding should be spent on river management projects until the public votes on the NLPD in November.

The next MPWMD meeting will be on July 17 at 7:30 at the Monterey City Council Chambers; the meeting is open to the public.

A PLACE IN THE SUN

By Virginia Parke

If you received a call on a hot Saturday morning that the toilets at the park were overflowing, you would of course respond immediately as did Randy Randazzo, Carmel Valley Parks and Recreation president.

When he arrived, the only thing overflowing was his surprise as 80 people shouted, "Happy Birthday, Randy!"

Sherrie May, who pulled off the "great toilet ploy" by making the "emergency" call to Randy, and fellow members of the Park and Recreation Board Dorothy McEwen with friend Jim Fitch, Ron Levora with mate June and Kay Kirkland and former member Chuck McKay to celebrate Randy's 70th.

More than 30 members of Randy's family participated in planning and presented a warm day of food, fun and entertainment.

His daughter Mary Lentz, granddaughter Michele Williamson, grandson Gary England, stepson Mike Hohler were delighted at pulling off the surprise. Some of the other family members attending included Helen Shelly, Rose Cardinalli Florence Dameron, and Marie Kassing.

John and Gerry Indorato provided music along with sister May Abinate's grandson, 11 year-old Arron who played the violin.

Many members of the Kiwanis joined the celebration. Some of those attending were Carmel Valley Chapter President Bruce Michael with his partner Pam, Bob Tarr, Lee Mink, John Hannon, Larry and Shirley McCann, Frank Quilty, Sidney Slade, John McDowell, Martha Aldredge, Batt Cassano, Dr. Ray Foster and Frank Meadows.

Also in on the fun were friends Don and Laurie Sweiss, Arlene Hamaker, Rosemary George, and Cathy Camp.

Randy, when asked to say a few words replied, "How can I talk with a lump in my throat?" I would like to close by adding my "HAPPY BIRTHDAY RANDY!" to a gentleman who gives so much to this community.

Please note that the names used have been chosen arbitrarily by me.

Fifth District Supervisor Sam Karas is seeking applicants to fill a vacancy on Monterey County's Carmel Highlands Fire Protection District Board of Directors, through June, 1998. The five person Board of Directors is responsible for governing the Fire District. The manager of the District is a full time Fire Chief. In addition to the Fire Chief, there are seven full time employees, one part time employee and fourteen volunteers.

The Fire District covers the area from the Carmel River south to one mile south of Mal Paso Creek, and from the ocean east to the Mt. Diablo Meridian, roughly two and one-half miles inland. The 1994-95 budget is $853,319.

The Fire District Board of Directors is appointed by the Monterey County Board of Supervisors, on the recommendation of the Fifth District Supervisor, for a term of four years. Directors must be residents of the Carmel Highlands Fire Protection District. The Directors meet once a month on the second Wednesday, at 2:00 PM at the Fire Station. Meetings last approximately two hours and the Directors receive no remuneration.

Duties of the Directors include acting on the recommendations of the Fire Chief regarding fiscal and personnel matters, major improvements to the building and grounds, and to the fire fighting equipment and apparatus, setting Fire District policies, and other major items concerning Fire Department administration.

Interested applicants residing in the Fifth District are encouraged to send a letter by July 7, 1995, stating their desire to serve, a brief resume, including home address and daytime telephone number to: Supervisor Sam Karas, 1200 Aguajito Road, Suite 001, Monterey, Ca. 93940.

Organic workshops

In its ongoing series of nature-oriented community programs, the Rancho San Carlos Education

Foundation is sponsoring a half-day session on organic farming and gardening, Saturday, July 8 at the Nature's Classroom at Rancho San Carlos Road and Valley Greens drive.

Drew Goodman, owner of Earthbound Farms, will conduct a tour of their farm fields and discuss the challenges of growing organic produce. Participants will also visit Earthbound Farms' produce stand and create an organic lunch with recipes from the Rancho San Carlos kitchen.

Earthbound Farms leases 60 acres of farm land from Rancho San Carlos. "Last year, we decided to convert the farming operations on the ranch to solely organic to be consistent with our environmental ethics," said Dr. Jeffrey Froke, Foundation president and director of resource conservation for the Santa Lucia Preserve.

The program has a limited enrollment and is offered free to the public.

Donations to the Foundation are welcome. The Rancho San Carlos Education Foundation was established in 1991 to foster the sensitive integration of people with their natural environment in Monterey County.

To enroll or to receive further information on the Foundation's education program call Suzanne Sawyer at 408-626-8200.

The proposed ruling by the State Water Resources Control Board is absolutely stunning. "Cal-Am is diverting about 10,730 acre feet per annum (afa) from the Carmel River or its underflow without a valid basis of right."

Said in other words, Cal-Am doesn't have a legal right to 69% of the water currently supplied to its customers.

If there were a water Richter scale, this would register an 8.0. The magnitude of the deficit is staggering. It would take 4 new groundwater basins yielding the supply now obtained from the Seaside basin, or 4 desalination plants comparable in size to the 1993 proposal to meet this requirement before any new water needs can be met.

So, for every acre-foot of new supply developed, there must be an equal reduction in pumping from the Carmel River basin until the entire 10,730 acre feet are replaced. Assuming you could even identify projects to develop this water, it would only bring us up to our present level of use. We'd still need projects to provide the drought protection we want as well as water for growth.

The good news is that the State Board will grant a water rights permit to allow construction of the New Los Padres dam. Water rights granted the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District are sufficient to make up the deficit caused by Cal-Am's reduced water right, but can be used only if the dam is approved.

In essence, our community is living on borrowed water. The State will allow us to temporarily continue using most of it. But the use will be unlawful and we will have to show due diligence in finding alternatives.

That's where you come in. Between now and November 7, 1995, when the Water District has scheduled an election on the New Los Padres Water Supply Project, you must educate yourself and become fully informed on peninsula water matters.

In the next few weeks, I will use this column to provide background information for you. It may be helpful to clip and save them for future reference.

Once the State decisions are final, the Water District will prepare a mailing to explain the ruling and its impact on us.

Attend public meetings where water issues will be discussed. Call the Water District at 649-4866 with your questions. Leave a message for me with your name and phone number. Your questions will either be incorporated into one of my columns, included in publications produced by the Water District, or responded to by phone.

The State Water Board has underscored the urgent problems affecting our water supply while confirming that a local solution is possible.

Begin by memorizing the figure 10,730 acre feet. This is the peninsula's water deficit. This is our illegal water use. It will not be tolerated indefinitely.

WHAT'S NEXT? Mel Vercoe

President Yeltsin had a right to be pushed out of shape. He was making a speech in Halifax, trying to get some sympathy for his Chechnya policy, knowing that the next speaker, President Clinton, was going to give him a bad time for ordering his troops to rough up those people in Chechnya, part of Russia, who wanted to secede from Russia, as if Russia didn't already have enough problems that it didn't need.

President Yeltsin had read about one of America's greatest heroes, President Abraham Lincoln, who saved America when a bunch of Americans in the southern part of America wanted to secede and have their own country. Well, if Abraham Lincoln could become one of the world's greatest heroes, by preserving America in one piece, then by heck, Boris Yeltsin could do it by preserving Russia in one piece.

But, then, why was America's President Clinton, of all people, giving him such a bad time about his Chechnya policy. Maybe it's because times have changed.

The cost of America's Civil War in lives is unknown. The "enemy", the Confederates, didn't keep records and sometimes the Union forces didn't. For example, it is believed that about 30,000 Confederate soldiers died in Union prisons. Altogether, the deaths in combat, plus non-combat deaths, added up to over a half-million, Union and Confederate.

At that time, America's population was about 30 million. Today, it is more than eight times that much. If that war had been fought today, with the same ratio of deaths, there would have been more than 4 million deaths. So, it was a terribly expensive war, but it preserved the Union, and poor Boris Yeltsin is being criticized by an American President for trying to be another President Lincoln, except that instead of being in America, he is trying to do it in Russia. Some days you just can't win, Boris.

Editor, CV Sun:

WHAT ARE THE ALTERNATIVES TO A DAM?

As I mentioned in a previous column, I represent Division 2 from which I was elected to the Water Management District. My division extends from the Monterey Courthouse over to Hilby in Seaside and north of Noche Buena to the ocean, including Sand City and Del Rey Oaks.

This is an awesome responsibility. My goal is now and always has been to augment the water supply. This includes providing sufficient water so that we will not be faced with rationing and building moratoria ever again. Included in this responsibility is to do my homework. This I have done, I have discovered that the 24,000 acre foot dam of which I was totally in support is going to yield only 3381 acre feet of water for people, the balance is for fish and the Carmel river environment. Of course some of the water moving out to the ocean to benefit the fish will also seep into the aquifer and be available in case of a drought.

The figures finally arrived for the cost of the dam. Including planning, design and financing costs, the total comes to $285 million.

There are several sources of water which are less expensive and will produce more water for people than the proposed New Los Padres Dam. I mentioned desalination in my last column, and its ability to produce as much as 3,000 acre feet per year. 381 acre feet less than the dam. Its cost came to $19.9 million as opposed to $100 million for the dam, (not counting planning, design and financing costs for the dam.)

Other alternatives include:

a. Retrofitting all of the toilets in the district by converting them from 5-7 gallons per flush to less than 3 gallons. This will provide 2,600 acre feet of water savings at a cost of $7.9 million plus $1.3 million for administration. (This does not include retrofitting DLI, which is estimated to save over 1,000 acre feet per year.)

b. A second well in Seaside similar to the Paralta well would produce another 1,000 acre feet. A study is being done to determine exactly how much water would be available from this second well, which Cal-Am would construct.

c. Utilize the 420 acre feet that Pebble Beach's reclamation project saved and which has never been allocated.

d. Utilize another 600 acre feet which the Paralta well can produce, but which the water board has placed in "drought reserve".

e. Utilize the 6,000 acre feet in upper Carmel Valley which the water board has prohibited Cal-Am to use.

f. Encourage current residents to install a recirculating hot water system so that the cold water which goes down the drain while we wait for hot water will not be lost. No estimate as to the amount of water savings this will produce.

Adding 2,600 + 1,000 + 420 + 600 + 6,000 equals 10,620 acre feet of water we can realize from these sources. If we add 3,000 acre fee from the desal plant, that equates to 13,620 acre feet, four times the amount of water we will realize from the dam!

Cost? $19.9 million from the desal plant and $9.2 million from the retrofitting program equates to $29.1 million. But, if we include financing costs for the desal plant, we can roughly estimate $45 million, but using a conservative figure of $50 million, that is nearly six times less costly than the $285 million dam. And, we will get four times the amount of water which the dam will provide for new growth.

It doesn't make economic sense to opt for the dam.

Editor, CV Sun:

I am requesting assistance from the citizens of Monterey County in obtaining a mobile disaster control center for the department.

The recent floods in Monterey County reaffirmed to us the need for a functionally designed and fully equipped emergency mobile disaster control center for the Sheriff's Department. During this disaster, we utilized a previously donated vehicle we had converted for the use of our hostage negotiators and similar operations.

It was used as a command post during the flooding at the mouth of the Carmel Valley but the use exceeded the design specifications. The vehicle was quite crowded for the 24 hours a day, 10 day operation. We do appreciate the donation and will continue to use this vehicle for its intended purpose.

I am asking for assistance in obtaining a late model vehicle that we can convert to fill the functions of a combined Emergency Mobile Disaster Control Center, Incident Command Post and Portable Community Policing Substation. Our contingency reaction plans have identified the need of a 32-34 foot motor home converted to fill these functions.

The new vehicle would be equipped as a mini-communications center, be equipped and have minimal space to conduct planning and briefing sessions, and shelter the operations staff during such incidents. It would also be used as a Portable Community Policing Substation in areas where we have deployed personnel on local Community Policing Projects.

These functions would also require that it be equipped with dispatching radios, cellular and regular telephone capabilities (including a fax machine), emergency power capability, appropriate storage capabilities, a small rest room, and sufficient office and planning space to run such operations.

I am very appreciative to the concerned citizens of Monterey County that have raised private funds to assist us in the conversion and equipping of such a motor home but there are not sufficient funds to do it completely. That is why I am asking for additional assistance.

I ask that anyone wishing to contribute towards this vehicle acquisition project telephone Capt. Robert Perez at 755-3803.

CV Women's Club Scholarships

The Carmel Valley Women's Club has awarded $1000 scholarships to two Carmel Valley seniors. The scholarships are to provide additional funding for further education after high school. The recipients are Carmel Valley residents. Both are sisters of former awardees.

Aiyana White, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Stan White will be attending U.C. Santa Cruz. Her goal is to teach math/physics at a high school or college level. Her sister Rachel was the 1st recipient of the Carmel Valley Women's Club awards.

Melissa Underwood, daughter of Mr. & Mrs. Don Underwood, will be attending Cal Poly in San Luis Obispo. Her goal is to become an animal behavior specialist. Her sister Belinda received a scholarship from CVWC last year.

Both of these very deserving women came to a luncheon in May to introduce themselves to the club members, who wish both of them very successful careers.

Shining Stars...Step outside on one of these crystalline Carmel Valley evenings: Jupiter rides bright in the southeast; Orion and his Dog have flung legs boldly over the mountains into the summer Pacific; and Arcturus arches away from the Dipper now hung like a twinkling bright saucepan in the northern sky. Yet look again to find the brighter stars also marching boldly: our own CVLL All Stars and Tournament Teams as bright with promise as any constellation--and much closer to home. So to celebrate those stellar efforts, we present herewith the roster of pride and praise as it is available to us at press time.

Rick, Rusty, and Neil...For the nine and ten year old All Stars, coached by Rick Smith and the Vanderpair Rusty and Neil, we recognize (in the order presented to us in No Particular Order): Barrett Conrad, Tirey Cordrey, Reed Heneks, Mark Lundy, Patrick Lyon, Christie Moroni, Bryce McCoy, Brent Thompson, Reynold Heiland, Jered Chapple, Brent Glanville, Damon Hattori, Travers Gere, Jesse Armstrong, and Chris Smith.

Big Guys and the Green Machine...Thanks to Gary Pennington and Pam Priano whose Indians really played a great second half, the wheels almost came off the Tiger's Green Machine. However, Glenn Nolte and David Stainbrook will lead not only the Green Cats into the Tournament of Champions, but they will guide the Eleven-Twelve All Stars to glory. Therefore, we'd like to honor those players: Bryce Matson, Patrick Thomas, Kyle Glanville, Matt Hale, Zack Newhouse, Chris Cope, Harry Heneks, Nathan Ricigliano, Isaac Siegel, Chris Rankin, Andreas Baer, Brandon Ocampo, Ben de Grazia, and Tim Covington.

Permafrost Performers...Few people understand Wind Chill Factor better than the players and parents of this year's CV Pony Leaguers. Combine a non-spring with the Carmel Middle School Wind Tunnel, and we all suffered through Arctic True Grit. Survivors of that Third Ice Age Experience went on to All Star status. For the first time this year we have two All Star Pony Teams, selected by age. The Thirteen Year Old All Stars, coached by Ed Canadas, Bob ("Toothpick") Allen, and Dan O'Sullivan, are (in the order presented during an early summer over-night by the first two on the list): Jon Lyon, Gary Higuera, Nathan Rede, Will Ross, Chris Foudy, Jeff McGowan, Dario Verga, Jesse Kovacs, Nathan Rodick, Scott Allen, Sean O'Sullivan, Spencer Reade, Pat Greco, Dan Drewien, and Robbie Green.

The Big Ponies...With Vince Carr and his merry men at the helm, the Fourteen Year Old All Stars shine out with Kory Auguston, Dane Edmondson, Ed Canadas, Jud Richards, Trevor Fogg, Austin Guest, Brian Boitano, Hank Stoffers, Justin DeMayo, Justin Noseworthy, Zubin Eggleston, Seth Perkins, Nat Bedell, and Joe Enea. Please come to watch all these Pony players display their talents. You will see a level of athletic prowess astonishing--until you remember the hours of effort invested by coaches and players alike, starting with those glorious moments in the early morn chill of T-ball and ending with an opposite-field home run into the wind or a perfect throw from catcher to short-stop to nail the runner in a cloud of dust at second base. Great season, Carmel Valley Pony Players!

Truly memorable...Back in the early Mezo-Pre-Vandervortian Period at Carmel High there came to teach in 1945 a tall young science expert and basketball maven who has asked to remain anonymous, but whose initials are C.D., for Chuck Dawson. Chuck somehow survived that first year with eighth graders who made terrible puns about snakes (Vindshield Vipers) and who later went on to play--if that term may be used--an entire three minutes on the JV basketball team before being relegated to John Westover's merry band of scrofulous golfers. Both the golfer and Chuck somehow managed to stay on in the Carmel district, Chuck as an administrator ably assisted by his lovely wife Muriel; the three minute wonder later licensed by the state to corrupt the youth at Carmel High.

Herewith the point of this lengthy introduction: we'd like to make a special point to honor the Dawsons. We've seen them at virtually every Tiger's game this year as they cheer for their grandson, David Steinberg. Their pride is evident, their enthusiasm contagious. But more: they set an example of loving parenting, supporting their daughters Karen and Christine, grandson David, and therewith all of us fortunate enough to be part of the community they so obviously love and enjoy. A tip o' the cap to you both!

Glorious Fourth...Once again we remind you that the Festivities of the Fourth begin early and end late at the CVLL Park. We have T-ball; we have Single A; we have Double A; we have Majors; we have softball (Nick, we need news of your teams!); we are scheduled for Pony. We also have the raffle, the barbecue, and the hyperactive snack bar to satisfy your every need. (We're still looking for hypo-active parents to man the snack bar, by the way.) Do come on down to the park for a day of sun and fun, hot dogs and home runs. Leave Fido at home, arrive on Paso Cresta and leave on Paso Hondo; no alcohol or tobacco, of course; and do enjoy those special, wonderfully American moments of kids and sun, baseball and being there, a joyous wrap-up to this year's season of baseball in paradise.

Dishing it out--a final word...Thanks to the dedicated staff of our unnamed local volunteer fire department, the neighborhood viewshed has greatly improved. The well-known local non-gourmet dish has been served up with a coat of blended background green. We appreciate!... And yet, it would indeed have made a glorious CVLLP promo for those scrappy Volunteers!

FOUR RULES FOR AGENTS TO FOLLOW IN LISTINGS

As an agent, there are two types of calls in my office that I look forward to taking. One of them is when the phone rings and that caller is interested in a house I have listed for sale. They want to see it as soon as possible! They're excited about the home and I'm anxious to make it work for them.

These calls are obviously fun, because everybody wins; seller, buyer and agent.

The second type is a lot different. When it happens, the caller's voice is subdued and cautious, sometimes skeptical and often it is a call that they hesitate in making.

"Can I help you?", I ask.

"Yes, um, hi. Listen, we're thinking of putting our house up for sale, but..."

The caller then proceeds to camouflage the exact intentions by asking about market trends or wondering how much we charge, etc.

I look forward to these calls because when I take a listing it becomes part of my inventory from which I derive my income as a real estate agent. One of my greatest satisfactions as an agent comes from helping people make positive changes in their lives through buying and selling houses.

So how come these calls aren't fun too? Do they think that I'll be winning by taking the listing, therefore implying they somehow come out as losers on the deal?

Maybe. But what the caller needs to know is that a good agent doesn't go out to your home to take a listing carte blanche. A good agent needs to qualify as well as council the potential seller first.

While buying a home is exciting, selling a home ranks with death and divorce as one of the highest stress levels people face.

As a professional, I believe the best way we can help you through this transition is to be direct, truthful and detached. you don't want to hire an attorney who breaks down in tears while presenting your case to the jury. You don't want a dentist who winces when he drills your teeth. A real estate professional must be equally in control.

The best advice I've gotten for going on a listing appointment was this: 1. Show up. 2. Pay attention. 3. Tell the truth. 4. Don't be attached to the outcome.

"Show up" means arrive at your house prepared to work. I need to know the facts of the market, your area, your property and encumbrances, and be ready to offer solutions to potential problems that can range from carpet installers to tax advisors.

"Pay attention" means listening to your motivation and concerns. You're hiring me to handle your greatest asset and manage your most private environment. I need to know what that involves so that I can ascertain whether I'm up for the task or not.

"Tell the truth". It sounds so simple. But here's what happened to me recently. A very nice woman called. She had been contemplating moving for several years. After a recent incident in her area, she knew it was time. I had been referred to her by a friend. Problem was she absolutely believed her house was worth no less than $140,000. I told her truthfully that I didn't expect she could get anything more than $110,000. It was like kicking her in the stomach.

"Don't be attached to the outcome." This doesn't mean to be callous and indifferent, rather it's the key to my professionalism. Translated, it states that if I maintain my integrity, the best situation will occur.

In my office I have a painting done by my three daughters. It is of their future "wish list". There is a college campus, a home with a swimming pool, a sports car (convertible no less), and various other things they hope for in their future. In the middle of these things is written four things that I read every day as a daily reminder to help me in my Real Estate business. It says: 1) show up 2) pay attention 3) tell the truth and 4) don't be attached to the outcome.

For a real estate professional, the exciting thing about listing a house for sale is knowing that we make a difference and offer solutions. The best compliment we can get is when you tell a friend and the phone rings again.

VALLEY FINANCE

Bonds make money out of thin air...it's called credit. When the Treasury needs cash to pay bills it cannot pay out of current revenue, it offers bonds at auction. Investors who favor U.S. Government bonds at that moment bid at the auction. The more bidders, the higher bond prices may go in the bidding; fewer bidders could mean lower bond prices.

Let's say the Treasurer determines a 6% interest payment on the bond is necessary to cause bidders to bid up bond prices...and thus increase the amount of cash which comes to the Treasury from its auctions. On a nice day for the Treasurer he gets $10,000 or more in cash for his bond, in exchange for his promises to pay the bearer $600 a year and repay the $10,000 in thirty years. Today's bills can be paid and bond repayment will be someone else's problem in thirty years.

What if only a few bidders attend the auction? The Treasurer may have to accept bids of less than $10,000. On a bad day for the Treasurer he might have to accept $9,000 for a bond. The $600 he is willing to pay in interest just became 6.7% to the new owner. The Treasurer may have to offer $670 annual interest at the next offering in order to attract more bidders, raise the cash he needs, and pay today's bills.

When our Treasurer has a few bad days like that, we say interest rates are rising.

If Japanese investors decide not to attend our Treasury auctions in retaliation for U.S. trade sanctions...or for any other reason...our Treasurer will have a few bad days.

Who says bonds are boring?

Valley restaurant to feature Broadway classics

The Covey Restaurant at Quail Lodge Resort presents "Broadway Classics at the Covey" on the next 3 Wednesdays at 7:00 PM.

The evenings begin with music, champagne and hors d'oeuvres followed by more music and a five-course meal (with wine) created by The Covey's executive chef Robert Williamson. Featured on the prix fixe menu are house specialties from the era's fashionable clubs and restaurants: The Stork Club, Delmonico's, 21 Club and the Rainbow Room.

Scheduled to perform during the series are critically acclaimed vocalist Linda Purdy (Mezzo-Soprano), Stephanie McGowan-Waldrup (Dramatic Mezzo-Soprano), David Shipley (Tenor) and Pauline Thomas accompanying the trio on piano. These musicians will perform memorable tunes from the Golden Age of Musicals, heart warming songs from Viennese and Italian Operetta and the best of contemporary Broadway hits.

Aquaravan posts summer schedule

Each year the Monterey Bay Aquaravan reaches thousands of students in Monterey, Santa Cruz and San Benito counties. During the summer, it takes its programs to the public at sites throughout the region.

Equipped with built-in saltwater aquariums, the vehicle carries marine animals as well as a team of educators who share information about coastal marine life. "We want beachgoers to get more out of their encounters with marine life while they're visiting the coast," said Outreach Education Coordinator Pat Rutowski. "We also want to foster a sense of responsibility, so visitors won't take the animals home where they can't survive."

Beach visits and community programs are scheduled during July and August. These Aquaravan programs are offered free by the non-profit Monterey Bay Aquarium. The aquarium spends $2 million a year for free and low cost public education programs as part of its mission to stimulate interest, increase knowledge and promote awareness of Monterey Bay and the world's oceans.

Aquaravan Summer Schedule:

Fri., July 14, Marina State Beach 11AM-3PM

Wed., July 19, Pinto Lake (Watsonville)

Thurs., Aug. 10, Carmel River State Beach 11AM-3PM

Fri., Aug. 11, Bird Rock/Sea Rock (Pebble Beach) 11AM-3PM

Tues., Aug. 15, Old Monterey Farmer's Market (Monterey) 4PM-8PM

Fri., Aug. 18, Del Monte Manor (Seaside) 5:30PM

Wed., Aug. 23, Hannon Assembled Apartments (Seaside) 5:30 PM

Fri., Aug. 25, Andrew Molera St. Park (Big Sur) 11AM-3PM.

Big Sur bus service heads for the budget chopping block

Monterey-Salinas Transit (MST) may have to reduce service and eliminate up to three transit lines in order to respond to proposed federal funding cuts. The agency may lose up to $1 million during the next fiscal year.

MST's first response to the anticipated loss of federal funds has been to cut support costs and look for additional sources of revenue. On June 12, 1995, the MST Board of Directors cut $183,600 in support costs and approved a contract to place advertisements on buses. According to MST Chairman Jim Collins, "Cutting service is the last step we will take to balance our budget; however, service cuts will be necessary."

Proposed service reductions include: eliminating night service after 7 PM, eliminating line 31-Natividad, eliminating line 36-West Market, eliminating line 2-Pacific Grove., operating line 22-Big Sur during July and August only, reducing holiday service.

Collins stated, "MST is proposing to cut the least utilized services; however, these services would not be eliminated if funding was available to continue these services". MST provides 3.6 million passenger trips per year. The proposed cuts will eliminate between 200,000 and 300,000 of these trips.

Comments may be mailed to: Monterey-Salinas Transit Board of Directors, One Ryan Ranch Road, Monterey, 93940. All written comments must be received by June 30.

From all the input, public meetings, letters and phone calls, MST will develop a prioritized list of service cuts. This list will be presented to the MST Board of Directors on July 10, 1995. A public hearing will be held at the MST Board meeting on August 14, 1995.

For more information call MST at (408) 899-2555 or 424-7695.

MST to hold hearing on cuts in bus service

Monterey-Salinas Transit (MST) is encouraging riders and other interested individuals to participate in a series of public meetings. The purpose of these meetings is to solicit comments on a variety of service reduction options.

Anticipated federal transit funding cuts have forced MST to compile a list of routes and trips that could be eliminated. The option list includes: Night service on all lines, Line 22 Big Sur, Line 36 West Market, Certain Sunday trips, Line 2 Pacific Grove, Line 31 Natividad, Certain morning trips and others.

Final decision will be made at a public hearing Monday, August 14, 1995, which will be conducted during the MST Board of Directors meeting that day.

Specific information about the services which may be reduced or eliminated is available on any MST bus or by calling 899-2555 or 424-7695.

Water Committee in 1989, the California Department of Parks and Recreation in 1991, and the Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club in 1991. The complaints alleged that Cal-Am does not have the right to divert water from the Carmel River and that these diversions are adversely affecting the public trust resources in the river.

Diversions from percolating groundwater do not fall under SWRCB jurisdiction however water flowing underground in a definite channel, "underflow", does. The SWRCB ruled that the water Cal-Am pumps from the river wells was flowing in a definite channel and in the 1992 hearings Cal-Am said that it did not agree with the SWRCB conclusions but that it could not and would not present contrary evidence at that time. At this point the question became whether Cal-Am had another claim of right to the underflow. In the June 22 draft decision, the SWRCB ruled that Cal-Am has pre-1914 appropriative rights and riparian rights to 1,197 of the 10,730 acre feet it pumps from wells along the river. The SWRCB also ruled that the illegal diversions are adversely affecting the public trust resources in the river citing the near extinction of Steelhead and the loss of riparian habitat, especially in the lower stretches of the river.

The SWRCB ruled that water diverted from the San Clemente Dam is not legal under a claim of pre 1914 appropriative rights however the Los Padres Dam operates legally under a SWRCB license.

The SWRCB is requiring Cal-Am to reduce its Carmel River pumping through a reduction in its total production of 15% by October of 1996 and a total of 20% by October of 1997. To achieve these reductions in Carmel River wells, the SWRCB recommended increased pumping from Seaside groundwater wells, instituting an urban conservation program, and to evaluate the feasibility of diverting early storm runoff. In addition, the SWRCB is requiring extensive environmental mitigation in an effort to repair damage to the riparian habitat.

Cal-Am has already filed an application to legally appropriate the river water it currently diverts. The SWRCB is not likely to grant rights to the total 10,703 acre feet as this amount of diversion adversely affects the public trust resources in the river, however the SWRCB could grant rights to some of it. Another option would be for Cal-Am to contract with the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District for NLPD water, should the voters approve the bond issue to pay for the estimated $100 million dam, or attempt a similar water project on its own. Total NLPD costs, including planning, finance and design are quoted as high as $285 million. Cal-Am can also explore new water sources such as new wells not along the river, desalinization or water reclamation projects.

Additionally, there is currently over 1,000 acre feet of unallocated water in the district which the Monterey Peninsula Water Management District could choose to allocate; 420 acre feet from the Water Reclamation Plant in Pebble Beach and 600 acre feet currently in "drought reserve" from the Paralta Well in Seaside.
